Example of simple sketch

Drawing Perspectives on Relationship Systems

1. Think of a relationship you are curious about exploring
2. On a sheet of paper draw a large circle that will represent the relationship you are thinking about
3. Now add a symbol that represent where you are in regards to the relationship
4. Now add a symbol to represent a person or a group of people who are relevant in the relationship being explored. These could be different or the same depending on however it makes sense to the person doing the drawing.
5. Represent any significant issues or events in the relationship with new symbols.
6. Draw lines between the symbols to represent connection. Solid lines for a strong connection and dotted lines for a less strong connection.
